CAUSE OF DESERTIONS

GEN. BATES BELIEVES IT TO BE DUE LARGELY TO HOMESICKNESS.

Suggests Putting Recruits on Probation for a Few Days—Advocates a General Military Prison.

Maj. General J. C. Bates, commanding the northern military division, in his annual report, says that the number of desertions continues to be large. "This is a serious question," he says, "and it demands constant consideration until a remedy is found and applied. It is believed to be, unfortunately, true that the public generally does not view this offense with the seriousness it deserves. The opinion is frequently expressed by officers of experience that sufficient time and care are not taken by recruiting officers in ascertaining the antecedents of applicants for enlistment. This view is perhaps supported by the large number of men discharged for disability contracted prior to enlistment, which, in itself, shows lack of proper method in the examination of recruits and, perhaps, carelessness.

Due to Homesickness. "I am of the opinion, previously expressed in my reports as a department commander, that desertions are, in a large measure, due to homesickness on the part of the recruit, and to the fact that a number of young men enter without mature deliberation and with little knowledge of the life of a soldier, and that a trial for a few days at a military post is perhaps the best way to determine if the applicant will really make a good soldier, and to enable him to decide understandingly if the life will suit him. It is believed to be practicable to apply this test in most instances.

Proposed Military Prison. "The return from the post guard house system to the method involved in that of a military prison for the custody of general prisoners is generally conceded to be of the first importance. Under the present conditions post guard houses are not only overcrowded, but it is impracticable in many instances to impose upon general prisoners the hard work justifying conviction for serious offenses, and which should serve as a deterrent example to others. Perhaps even a graver consideration in this connection is the demoralizing contact, brought about by the present system, between men convicted of serious military offenses and good soldiers who are assigned over them as guards. This contact is undoubtedly highly prejudicial to the interests of discipline.

Holding Allotments. The action of the War Department in notifying several of the states that their proportionate allotment for the appropriation made by Congress for the support of the organized militia will not be given unless the provisions of the militia act are faithfully observed, Gen. Bates says, has already had a beneficial effect. The benefits to be derived from the regular militia troops in the field from year to year are evident. In the course of his report Gen. Bates states that post schools for enlisted men have been maintained as required by regulations. He says that the experience of many years has shown that no great advantage is derived from these schools, and it is his opinion that they should be conducted in light schools with permission for any soldier to attend who desires.

MENTALLY UNBALANCED.

Two Strangers Fall Into the Hands of the Police.

A young man, who gave his name as William C. Morrow, called at police headquarters about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and asked Maj. Sylvester to furnish him transportation to Philadelphia. It was apparent that the young man's mind was disordered and he was turned over to the sanitary officer.

"I was the head salesman for a furniture company at Tampa, Fla.," he said, "and before that I was a captain in the German navy. After settling in this country I was shot 210 times. My money, $250,000, is in two banks in Philadelphia. It is not necessary for me to tell you the names of the banks. The amount of money is $250,000 worth of diamonds in Richmond. The Richmond police officials are responsible for my condition, as they refused to permit me to leave there and would not let the doctor give me the diamonds."

The police surgeons examined him and passed upon him as being in a fit subject for treatment in the asylum. He was sent to St. Elizabeth's today. Another stranger in the city who fell into the hands of the police yesterday afternoon and was examined by the police surgeons signed his name "Rev. William L. Armstrong, M. D." He had invented a perpetual motion machine. It was for the purpose of inducing the president to assist him in getting the machine upon the market that he came here yesterday and called at the Capitol. When a Capitol policeman heard what his mission was he escorted him to police headquarters. The stranger gave his age as eighty-one years. He said he expected his son to meet him here and was disappointed when he failed to do so. Upon recommendation of the police surgeons the elderly man was sent to the Washington Asylum Hospital for observation. The police that his son-in-law, G. F. Hopkins, is a minister and is stationed at Harrington, Del. The police have communicated with his relatives.

FIRST FALL MEETING.

Brightwood Park Citizens' Association Discusses Public Needs.

After a summer recess of three months the Brightwood Park Citizens' Association met last evening at Van Horn Hall, Brightwood Park. Announcement of the annual election of officers called forth a very large attendance. W. McK. Clayton was re-elected President by the unanimous vote of the association; Dr. Geo. B. Helmecke, vice president; Frank J. Metcalf, secretary; Homer Smith, treasurer, and A. M. Condra, sergeant-at-arms.

The chairman briefly reviewed the work of the association for the past year, the special work accomplished being the installation of lights on Shepherd road and throughout Brightwood Park; the laying of granite sidewalks on Des Moines, Erie and 8th streets; the construction of the avenue; improvement of the mail facilities and car service and the establishment of a public kindergarten.

A partial list of the committees was announced by the chair, after which the association proceeded to the regular order of business. The school committee detailed its plan of work for the ensuing year, and it was voted to ask the co-operation of the Brightwood Park Park Association in the effort to secure an eight-room public school building for Brightwood Park. Upon motion of Mr. W. McK. Clayton the association voted to ask the Brightwood Park Association to tender Mr. Joseph R. Keene, supervising principal of county schools, for his encouragement and aid in the placing of the kindergarten school at Brightwood Park.

Mr. Ritchie referred to the need of a sidewalk on portions of Brightwood avenue from Chesapeake street to the public school building at Brightwood, and a resolution was passed asking the District authorities to lay said sidewalk on the ground of public necessity.

Satisfaction was expressed when the railroad committee reported that faster running time may be expected on the Brightwood line; that the prospect of having additional cars on the line is good; that the more frequent runs on the 11th street line will relieve the congestion on the Brightwood line. The erection of a new waiting room at Florida avenue was also noted. The committee on the proposed new mail facilities said inadequate and unsatisfactory, and stated that many complaints are being made. The association voted to again ask that the station at Brightwood Park be made a carriers' station.

After adjournment the members of the association sat down to a bountiful collation provided by Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Van Horn.

REGARDED AS MISTAKE

PROPOSED TRANSFER OF THE 15TH CAVALRY CRITICISED.

It is Claimed That the New Quarters at Fort Ethan Allen Will Not Be Ready for Months to Come.

The orders that were issued from the War Department transferring the squadron of the 15th Cavalry, stationed at Fort Myer, to Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., appear to have been a mistake, and there is reason to believe that the troopers of the 15th will not get away as soon as was at first supposed. Although there has as yet been no change in the original program, and as far as official instructions are concerned the 15th is scheduled to leave October 20, there is believed to be ground for a conjecture that the regulars will not depart on that day nor for many other days to come.

Condition of New Quarters.

The ordering of the 15th Cavalry to Fort Ethan Allen is looked upon by those who are fully acquainted with the situation as a mistake. It is claimed that the contractors have never promised that the new quarters at Fort Ethan Allen would be ready before November 1, and, knowing the ways of government contractors, it is claimed that implicit faith in their promises is the only possible thing that could induce those in authority to believe that the buildings would be finished at that time. Experience would place the date a month or two earlier, and the contractors have been and as the reports from the Vermont post indicate, the quarters for the men will not be finished in time. Numerous unforeseen delays have blocked the work of the builders, and it is probable that the Christmas moon will wax and wane and the advance notices of St. Valentine's day will be appearing in the newspapers before the buildings are really ready for the occupancy of the troopers. In the meantime if the men are sent away from here October 20 the soldiers of the 15th Cavalry, who suffered intensely with the cold in this mild climate after serving three years in the tropics, will be cramped on a bleak Vermont plain with the mercury rattling around in the bottom of the tube. From the statements of officers who have been stationed there in winter it is learned that the thermometer takes station about 10 degrees below zero around November 1, and goes on higher until April, although it might occasionally sink much lower. The latest promises from Vermont are that one of the barracks buildings may be ready for occupancy by November 1, but it will be at least thirty days later before the other can possibly be ready. It has been suggested that the headquarters and band of the regiment, now stationed at Fort Myer, may be moved north comfortably now, but that it will be wiser to wait until the spring for the transfer of the squadron of soldiers.

The 7th Cavalry, on the other hand, is fully accustomed to sleeping and having its belongings in the open air. The simple reason that it has lived that way at Chickamauga during the last three years, and there is not much difference in the climate here and at Chickamauga. The headquarters of the 7th, which is stationed here, is even now comfortably camped on the parade at Fort Myer. The men declare they are just as warm and dry in their tents as they could possibly be in the barracks. Their three years' residence has made them very much attached to the canvas dwellings, and they would feel out of place anywhere else.

Considerable Criticism Heard.

A great deal of criticism is being indulged in among those familiar with army practices against the summary disposal of the Fort Myer squadron of the 15th. The regiment came here from the Philippines last winter, after three years of the hardest service of any cavalry regiment ever stationed in the islands and bore up under the strain remarkably well. The second squadron was selected for the post at Fort Myer because it was believed to be the best of the regiment. The subsequent events would seem to have proved that it would come very near being the best in any regiment. With all sorts of difficulties against which to work, expiring enlistments and few re-enlistments, the officers of the squadron went to work to make the best of the situation. The cavalry post of the 15th is a good one, and the men, recruits, having no training whatever, a fairly good showing was made by the men in the maneuvers of the spring and summer, and within the past few weeks at Manassas the work of the regiment attracted such favorable attention from the commander of the blue division of the maneuvers that a special order was published from the headquarters of the brigade to which the 15th was assigned, commending the work of the officers and men in the maneuvers.

It is asserted that the work of the men last year was simply preparatory and preliminary, and that much remained to be done. The system of instruction had been outlined for the coming year, and it was the intention of Colonel Wallace to make every troop in the squadron proficient as a unit before the winter. The composite troop last winter in all the points of cavalry work, so that the distinguished visitors could have the best possible merit. At Ethan Allen it will not be possible for the drill to go on as here, where the weather will be so cold as to prevent the possibility of outdoor work, and the twelve troops waiting to take a turn there will be little chance to carry out the program.

Fort Myer the Show Cavalry Post.

During the last five years there have been just six changes of station at Fort Myer. Some of the troops have been here more time, but the average would bring the time down to about eight months for each. Each unit stationed here is called upon to put up exhibition drills for the benefit of the foreign military attaches who come here for the purpose of watching the army. In every respect Fort Myer is supposed to be the show cavalry post of the country, just as Fort Monroe is the show infantry post. The American cavalry is radically different and superior to foreign cavalry, and it is here that the foreign experts do not hesitate to say so. It is at Fort Myer that they have the opportunity for studying it, and it is here that the army is expected to keep a good squadron that will show the visitors everything they desire to see in the best possible light. It is argued by officers who have watched the troops here that to build up an efficient organization, after foreign service, requires a year at least, and at the end of that time only, under ordinary conditions, the organization in condition to serve as a model for exhibition purposes. It is claimed that it speaks very well for the efficiency of the army in general, and the cavalry in particular, that the troops that have been stationed here have been able to make such creditable showing, but the officers do not hesitate to say that the cavalry is a good deal better than it was a few years ago. The fact that the squadron of the 2d stationed at Fort Myer had been able to retain its position for so long a period without any of its predecessors and had been able to build up an excellent organization. This is used as an argument for a longer term at Fort Myer.

Officers Not Objecting.

The officers of the 15th are not objecting to the change in the least. A station near Washington is claimed by them to be the most expensive in the country, and in addition to this they are under a constant strain while here. They rather welcome a chance to get away to themselves, although they do not wish going to Fort Ethan Allen and living in the open air or so in zero weather. The medical officers claim that such a proceeding might result in all kinds of trouble for the troops, laying them open to pneumonia and its attendant ills. Any way the matter is viewed, it is charged, that there has been a misunderstanding somewhere, and unless a change in the orders is made within the next month the soldiers will suffer from the mistake.
